The COVID-19 virus has impacted our global health, economy and way of life. Living in a time of uncertainty can feel overwhelming. This virtual forum will bring folks together from academia and community to discuss how we can support one another during this pandemic. Join us to hear about current ways communities are tackling this crisis, solutions you can adopt for your community, and connect with like-minded individuals. We intend to use this time as a way to heal and create next steps for our communities to move forward.
